

Nicholas Konsolas is Honorary President of the Regional Development Institute and Professor Emeritus of Regional Economic Policy at the Panteion University. For more than 26 years he was President and Director of the Regional Development Institute. He has been the Head of the Industrial Areas Division of the Hellenic Industrial Bank (ETVA) and President and CEO of VIPETVA SA. He has also served on the Board of ETVA. During his tenure in all these positions he was especially dedicated to achieving development through environment-friendly policies. He is currently a member of the Board of the Greek section of the European Regional Science Association (ERSA). He has also served as Treasurer and Scientific Evaluator of the ERSA for 17 years. He has published books and articles on Regional Development, Technological Parks, European Regional Policy, Project Evaluation, R&D Policy etc. He is acting as Scientific Co-ordinator on a series of research studies investigating economic, social, environmental and regional development issues. He has also been a member of many Committees on various development issues. He has managed several E.U. co-funded projects for different Greek regions. His main publications are: Contemporary Regional Economic Policy, Industrial Areas, Regional Development in Greece, etc.