

Konstantinos Maroulis, received his BSc in Electrical Engineering from University of South Alabama in USA, his MSc in Electrical Engineering and Computer Science from Aristotle University of Greece, and his MBA from the Hellenic Association of Enterprise Management. Konstantinos, has extensive experience in gas pipeline design, construction, operation and maintenance, since he was one of the very first engineers who started the utilization of the Natural Gas Transportation System in Greece, at the beginning of 1990 decade. He served the corporation as an O&M District Manager, as the O&M Manager Director, as the Gas Transportation Division Manager Director, and currently (for the last year) as the General Manager Director of Gas Transportation, Administration & Finance, managing in a very large extent the operations of the entire corporation.