

Short bio: George Alexopoulos

George Alexopoulos is the Director of Corporate Planning and Development for Hellenic Petroleum Group. Previously, he was the Director of Business Planning for the Latsis Group, based in Geneva, Switzerland with particular focus on energy. He has also worked in various technical and business development positions in the Chemicals, Environmental Technology and Engineering & Construction industries, in the United States. He holds an MBA from Harvard Business School and M. Sc. and B. Sc. degrees from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.